

All public schools in the State of Louisiana closed facilities to students for the remainder of the 2019-2020 school year. Schools may offer opportunities for students to learn from home during this time. This document provides you with a quick overview of ways to support a child's learning and English language development during the school closure.

For the teacher/school:

- Review EL Accommodation Checklists to determine what kinds of supports each EL needs.
- Use your EL specialists to review certain assignments that may be problematic for ELs with lower proficiency levels.
- Establish a way for students and parents to communicate with you.
- Most ELs should be working on the same content and lessons as their non-EL peers as they would in the physical classroom.
- Provide links to sites to use during lessons and those that might support an EL's access to them. These supports should include videos, audio versions, annotated texts, and when applicable, bilingual supports.
- If the student is a recently arrived EL with very low English proficiency, you may want to direct them to work on their English skills. There are free programs/apps like Duolingo, Mango Languages, Live Lingua, Open Culture and more they can use. Also encourage them to read/listen to texts/watch videos in English to help them reinforce those essential language skills while at home.
- When assigning tasks from their content classes, consider that some ELs will require these to be simplified, modified, or shortened.
- Some ELs will not have computer or internet access, so you may need to create paper-based assignments for them to do as an alternative to online learning.
- ELPS has been paused for the duration of our school closures. If potential EL students did enroll and were unable to be screened for EL services, use the home language survey \(HLS\) to determine if they meet the participation criteria. School systems may want to use the Family Interview to gather more information about language use.
- Review the ideas in the ELL and ELD Distance Learning Support.

For the parent/guardian:

- If you don't have internet access at home, try calling the provider in your area. If they ask for a social security number (and you don't have one), ask if they will accept an alternate means of verification or a deposit.
- If possible, make sure the student is continuing to read and write, even if it is in a language other than English.
- Visit the school's website and/or class websites that may have been established for distance learning purposes.

- Set up a clear way of sharing information with the student's teacher about classwork, expectations, and concerns. Email, phone calls, and text messaging can all be used in place of in-person meetings.
- Allow your child to work with a friend over the phone or video call.
